THE BVWS CODE OF PRACTICE

It is a condition of membership of the British Vintage Wireless Society that members agree to support our objectives and observe this code.

Our objectives are to encourage the preservation and communication of technical and historical data, and to preserve or restore vintage equipment.

Membership of the Society must not be exploited for purely commercial advantage.

Members must take care not to knowingly misrepresent or allow misunderstanding of authenticity, condition or age of any item offered in a transaction.

Members must observe the Society's rules relating to the conduct of meetings and auctions, as advertised in connection with specific events - in particular, ad hoc transactions prior to official opening of a meeting, or withdrawal of catalogued auction items in favour of a private deal, are not acceptable.

Members must not compromise the good standing of the Society by associating it with any dishonest or unethical activity.

By signing below you agree to adhere to this code.

The information entered on this form is correct and for purposes of exemption from registration under the Data Protection Act.
